Program Information

I. Need

Note: Complete I.A and I.B only if preliminary authority for the program was granted more than four years ago. This includes programs for which the institution was granted broad preliminary authority for the discipline.

A. Job Market Need – Provide short- and long-term evidence of the need for graduates in the job market. There is a shortage of agricultural science teachers state and nationwide. Those with masters degrees are in great demand and are the first hired each school year. In 2015, we started the school year with over 60 open positions for primary school teachers.

B. Student Demand – Provide short- and long-term evidence of demand for the program. We have 5-10 graduate students completing their masters both at a distance and face to face with an interest in teaching youth. Providing courses as a certificate will help them direct their studies while best preparing them for specific positions.

C. Enrollment Projections – Use this table to show the estimated cumulative headcount and full-time student equivalent (FTSE) enrollment for the first five years of the program. (Include majors only and consider attrition and graduation.)

The program requires a capstone experience to solidify skills and enhance the graduate experience. The Capstone Experience will be tailored to individual student needs in consultation with the committee chair, graduate committee and certificate committee. Examples of appropriate activities include, but are not limited to: development and documentation of a program, collection and dissemination of data that impacts practices, shadowing experiences or field trips to other programs documented and shared. It is expected that the results of the capstone will be shared with a larger audience (presentation at an in-service, professional development presentation, area, state or national conference, or other appropriate venue).

1. Report costs for new faculty hires, graduate assistants, and technical support personnel. For new faculty, prorate individual salaries as a percentage of the time assigned to the program. If existing faculty will contribute to program, include costs necessary to maintain existing programs (e.g., cost of adjunct to cover courses previously taught by faculty who would teach in new program).
2. Specify other costs here (e.g., administrative costs, travel).
3. Indicate formula funding for students new to the institution because of the program; formula funding should be included only for years three through five of the program and should reflect enrollment projections for years three through five.
4. Report other sources of funding here. In-hand grants, "likely" future grants, and designated tuition and fees can be included.
