Aggies Commit
to learning for a lifetime

Michael T. Stephenson ‘93
Associate Provost for Academic Affairs
Professor of Communication
At Texas A&M our students and faculty are committed to a culture of excellence in teaching, research, and service and to an environment of respect where all Aggies Commit to Learning for a Lifetime.
Texas A&M is committed…

…to create a culture that makes intentional and thoughtful engagement in transformative learning experiences the norm for all A&M students.
Texas A&M is asking YOU:
Will you commit to developing yourself to be a lifelong learner?
How can graduate students help?

Make a commitment!

- Watch for OGAPS activities which are designed to enhance learning
How can graduate students help?

Participate!
GPSC Career Enhancement Fellowships

For experiences that go beyond required activities within YOUR degree program.

Providing access to resources or programming not available at Texas A&M:

grant training, qualitative or quantitative research training programs, professional development workshops, archival work, interdisciplinary experiences, etc...
How can graduate students help?

OGAPS Mini Grants for Innovative Programming

• for new experiences for graduate students that contribute to Aggies Commit

• two rounds of funding last year
Aggies Commit to learning for a lifetime